Message from the Commadore,

What a Luau Weekend! Congratulations to those who ventured forth on Thursday to hold the beach and suffered the vengeance of Mother Nature and to the rest who joined them on Saturday. Congratulations to Gary & Mary Beth for hosting such a successful Luau. On Saturday, October 14th at 10:00 we are having a Clean-Up Party at the yacht club. Remember many hands make for light work.

Corwon and I met again with Randy and hope to get things going again on the new facility. He is hoping to have us ready to start by January.

October 21st is the ECHO Dive and Cleanup at Callville. Registration is from 8:00 to 9:00. They need volunteers to dive and work on shore. Callville will provide lunch for all volunteers and is also offering some raffle prizes. Callville is also having a costume Halloween Party October 28th.

Tom Scherer

The 2006 LMYC Luau

Wind, what wind? Certainly not the 45 MPH gusts that tried their darndest to blow us off the beach at Mushroom Reef and kept us at "bay" at Callville Marina. Certainly not enough to keep the brave hearty souls of the LMYC from a PARTY!!!

It was truly amazing. The story I heard from those that shared the beach from Thursday on, was that by Saturday morning, rumors had the party CANCELLED! The beach holders were making bets as to who would try to make the run to mushroom reef. But...as the morning wore on, boats began calling in for parking directions. Tom Tedder, Captain of the Fleet and his capable assistant, Rear Commodore Steve Jones, had the parking situation "in-hand". In fact, by 11am, over two dozen big boats arrived, and were guided in by the awaiting crew. Brent Thompson said it was like the "Cavalry arriving in the nick of time." Everyone on the beach came down to welcome the newcomers.

The wind continued Saturday afternoon but didn't dissuade anyone from helping set up camp. Mel Garraway took charge of emptying the barge while Marty Schwartzer's strong, young guests set up the lights and serving tables on the beach. With the help of other members, the barge was unloaded and the Tiki Bar set and stocked. Our "grillers" began cooking up hamburgers and hot dogs for lunch. Thanks to Bob Gatewood, Al Garraway and Mike Pearce, for their fine culinary skills with the "dogs and burgers" and to Max Butterworth for his valuable assistance with the grills. Thanks to all of you for your help and assistance on Saturday.

Chuck Kruse and MB set up a registration table on the "porch" of the Luau headquarters (rental houseboat), displaying the raffle prizes and selling party registrations and raffle tickets. Meanwhile, Patty Butterworth and Evan Pearce were busy inside modeling and taking orders for a variety of Luau T-shirts. Chuck, Bonnie Jeu and Anita Cotreono did a superb job capturing the attention of the crowd and pushing those raffle tickets to a new high.

The afternoon went by very quickly thanks to Jodie, our appointed bartender and her special Hawaiian cocktails and other liquid refreshments.

Although the tents and canopies were still in their boxes, the grills and electric kettles were set-up and warming the main course dinner. Thank you Marty for the use of all your extension cords and electrical power from Dat Dam Bote. With the wind subsiding, Joe Crisci and Stu Forsberg were able to set up the Tiki Torches to improve the ambience and provide more light. Fortunately for all, along came The Matsen's. Realizing that time was of the essence, Mark took over the chore of preparing the meat and keeping the ovens electrified. MB, Karen, Patty Butterworth, Adele Thompson, Debbie Graham, Evan Pearce and the merry maids worked to complete the important salads and side dishes. Wayne Jeu and Stu Forsberg were busy grilling chicken for those who didn't eat pork and tending the huge pot of corn on the cob. Thanks to Mel Garraway for preparing her special Canadian Cabbageslaw. We must also thank those who offered the use of their houseboat ovens to prepare the sweet potatoes/apples. Thanks Anita for your personal touch while serving the pineapple upside down cake. And, Chuck, did Tom Tedder ever get his dessert personally delivered by you?

Thanks to all the servers that evening, Adele Thompson, Pat Bily, Mark and Karen Matsen and Wayne Jeu for their kind assistance. We had a great selection of raffle prizes; Thanks to Marcia Krause and Patty Butterworth for their efforts in the creation of the beautiful Hawaiian baskets. Thanks also to Jeff & Jeff of West Marine for their great raffle gifts.

Special thanks to our great DJ, Jazzy Jeff...who donated his time, talents and equipment and kept the music flowing all weekend and provided major assistance in broadcasting information about the happenings that afternoon and evening, Jeff kept the music going and the beach jumping until the late hours. After watching Wayne and Mel dancing we have learned that the talent scouts have invited them to appear on "Dancing With The Stars".

Best Boat decor was won by Billy and Julie McAlpine. Considering the adverse weather conditions and the condensed time frame, we thank all who participated in the contest.

Sunday morning proved how well the party went Saturday night by the number of folks who needed a "little hair from the dog that bit ya". Brent Thompson was kept hopping with requests for Bloody Mary's and Mimosa's while Geno Hill, Rick Welch, Tom Scherer, Corwon Finley and Wayne Jeu prepared and served the traditional Luau morning after breakfast.

Sunday morning clean-up went quickly due to the help of so many. Too many names to mention but a sincere thank you to those who helped.

Special thanks for those whose efforts were behind the scenes: Gene Krause for his special prices and donations of the food products, Randy Roundtree for the exceptional pricing on the Forever Resorts Houseboat, Bump Elliott for expediting logistics with the Houseboat, Bob Gatewood and Bill Bauer for driving the barge to and from Mushroom Reef, Pat Bily for assisting in unloading our dinghy. The Saturday before, loading of the barge. Thanks for helping: Don Reed, Steve and Irene Jones, Tom & Clevelle, Bob & Yvonne Smith, Bob Gatewood, Bob & Cathy Cox.

Kudos to the fourteen boats that made it to Mushroom Reef on Thursday morning to hold the beach and brave high winds and blowing sand which continued through Saturday morning. Back at Callville Bay and LV Boat Harbor the others were anxiously waiting to see if the winds would subside enough to make the voyage. Who would have believed at 4:00 AM Saturday morning, with 35 knot winds at the marina that we would be going anywhere that day. By 6:30 AM our Commodore, Tom Scherer called to say the winds have calmed and we're heading out! Listening to the chatter on the VHF radio and watching dozens of boats leaving the marina brought pride, leaving a lump in your throat to those watching. The determination and camaraderie to "reach the beach" of all the LMYC members and guests was an inspiration to all involved.

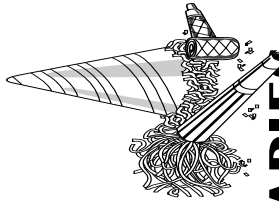

Mary Beth and I want to truly thank everyone for their effort, determination and support to make this party happen. Everyone expressed their feelings about the strength and unity that was shown within our club that weekend.

Proud members of the Lake Mead Yacht Club

As always these hosts are greatly appreciated and the Luau is not one of the easy ones as a lot of planning and organizing has to be done, so thank you Vice Commodore Gary Weinberg and his ever helpful wife, MB.
